SAFETY MOMENT

FLOODED BASEMENTS

Flooded basements pose a severe hazard from electrocution, falling into depressions, open pits, sewage, gasoline spillage, fuel oil spills, chemicals and exposure to other unseen trip hazards.

- If a Service Line Breaks/Leaks:
- Never step into a flooded basement or other room if water may be in contact with electrical outlets, appliances or cords. The water could be energized and could shock or electrocute you.
- Never attempt to turn off power at the panel board if you must stand in water to do so. If you can't reach your breaker box safely, call the electric utility to shut off power at the meter
- If water is spraying on to the electrical panel – shut the cellar wall valve and get out. Make one attempt to shut the cellar wall valve, if unsuccessful, get out.
- Standing water is considered anything other than a wet floor with a few puddles. This includes standing water surrounding a water meter and wet carpets.
- Never go into a flood-damaged basement or a flooded basement until the utility company, fire department, or a licensed electrician has cut the power to the house or the effected unit.
- Even after the power is confirmed de-energized one should never enter the flooded basement along.

On motion made by Mr. Havrda and seconded by Mr. Levine, the Committee voted to approve the minutes of its February 16, 2026 meeting, as presented.

At 5:33 p.m., Ms. Nesteriak entered the meeting.

Mr. Singh, the RWA’s Chief Information Digital Officer & Vice President of Customer Care, provided an overview of the Customer Care site tour held earlier in the month, which was attended by nine RPB members. The tour provided members with the opportunity to view the new customer information system live. He highlighted the system’s ability to assist customer care agents by offering services such as generating automated emails to address core issues and utilizing the chatbot auto-recognition service. Additionally, the service will offer a live chat feature, expected to be deployed by the end of the year.

The Committee expressed its appreciation for the opportunity to see the new system in action. Members noted the value of meeting and interacting with the staff, who were described as committed, enthusiastic, knowledgeable, and supportive. The new system was commended for its sophistication, technological advancements, and its ability to assist customer care agents to provide outstanding service to RWA customers.

At 5:46 p.m. Mr. Smith entered the meeting.

Mr. Singh also commented that the new system offers customers more options and is cost-effective to operate. He announced the revival of the customer assistance program, which allows payment arrangements ranging from 6 to 24 months. He further noted that additional enhancements to the system are forthcoming. He stated that he will be providing a presentation to the Committee next month on the new system benefits.

The Committee also discussed billing and collections, unaccounted-for water, and on-site support. A second tour will be scheduled for RPB members who were unable to attend the initial session.

Attorney Donofrio from the Office of Consumer Affairs reported no active consumer complaints. He is currently reviewing the Authority's Rate Application and drafting his opinion and recommendation, which will be submitted to the RPB later this week.

He provided an update on the Connecticut Energy and Technology Committee's recent house bill aimed at rescinding changes to the Authority's 2024 enabling legislation, noting that he recently testified and addressed committee questions. Additionally, he reported that the Connecticut Public Utilities Regulatory Authority issued a draft decision on March 6th for the Aquarion Water Authority transaction, which was met with opposition through oral arguments from the Office of Consumer Counsel (OCC), Attorney General, and Council of Governments. Concerns raised by intervenors included the OCA's structure, lack of independence, staffing, cost to ratepayers, budget, and the OCC's concerns regarding the OCA's resource availability.

On motion made by Mr. Levine and seconded by Mr. Malloy, the Committee voted to approve the OCA's February 2026 billing for $5,628.00.
